

LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS 2013

WHY BE A COUNCILLOR?

involved and influence
your community

As a local government councillor you can influence decisions about your community in areas including:

- Sport and Recreation
- Environment
- Community Development
- Public Health and Safety
- Essential Infrastructure
- Future Planning

The best way to influence change is to be involved in the decision-making process.

Local government councillors are elected by people who live and do business in the local Council area.

COUNCILLORS PLAY A VERY IMPORTANT COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP ROLE AND INFLUENCE THE DECISIONS THAT COUNCILS MAKE ABOUT WHAT HAPPENS LOCALLY.

A Councillor gets involved in:

- determining local government policies
- developing and monitoring strategic plans and budgets
- making sure the Councils resources are used fairly for the benefit of all community members and
- overseeing the allocation of the local government's finances and resources.

The best way to influence change is to be part of the decision-making process. A term on Council is one way you can make sure that community perspectives are heard and considered by a local government. It's your community and it's your local government. Be part of both.

A BIG DECISION, BUT REALLY WORTH IT!

Taking on a community leadership role means taking on extra work. So becoming a councillor is a big decision. There are demands on your time to read local government documents, attend monthly council meetings as well as attend additional meetings and community functions. You may have to travel, speak publicly and make decisions that are for the good of everyone in your local community.

Many councillors also represent local government on other boards and committees to make sure that they remain aware of community needs and goals. You will also receive training in a number of areas on being a Councillor. Its about balancing responsibilities, obligations and commitments. But for the extra work there are many rewards for being on council. It's your community and it's your local government. Be part of both.

ONCE YOU ARE ELECTED AS A COUNCILLOR YOUR ROLE WILL INVOLVE:

- presenting your arguments and debating with other councillors
- reading and understanding reports, plans, policies including budgets, strategic plans and local laws
- public speaking at community events and being in the public eye
- dealing with issues that sometimes may not seem important to you
- experiencing expectations from within the Council and community on issues. It is the job of all Councillors to represent everyone in their communities
- dealing with the reality about what issues you can influence and what you can actually achieve and act on as a councillor.

WHO CAN NOMINATE AS A CANDIDATE?

Local government elections are held every 2 years to elect councillors for terms of 4 years. People can nominate to become a candidate, if they are:

ASSESS YOUR CHANCE OF WINNING

- Get to know the local area and issues really well.
- Attend some council meetings and get an idea of the meeting processes and issues discussed.
- Work out your campaign theme. The theme needs to reflect what the voters want to hear based on community issues. The community will want to know what you stand for so they can decide whether to vote for you.
- You will need to plan and market your campaign and promote yourself.
- You will need to develop a profile and be seen. This can be involvement in community groups and organisations. Listening to community and individual concerns.
- Encourage people to enrol and vote for you. Let them know why their vote is important.
- Work out who can help promote you as a candidate. You can consider publishing brochures, door knocking and meeting with people. There may be local media opportunities.
